ISSA BREVIS

Zoltan Kodaly

Like his compatriot Bela Bartok, Kodaly early displayed a keen interest in the folk music of his country, and the two great composers worked together in collecting, organizing and editing the best wealth of national folksongs. This mass, written in 1945 during the Russian siege of Budapest, shows the strong influence of Hungarian national melodies and rhythms on the works of Kodaly.

THE PEACEABLE KINGDOM

Randall Thompson

Probably no American composer has written for voices with more ease and effectiveness than Randall Thompson. His choral compositions prove that one can be a traditionalist and still write fresh, powerful, inspiring music. The Peaceable Kingdom, written in 1936, is a sequence of Sacred Choruses for unaccompanied mixed voices with texts from the Prophecy of Isaiah. The work was inspired by a painting by the early nineteenth-century American artist, Edward Hicks. Hicks was a Quaker preacher, and his painting radiates loving-kindness. Thompson's scheme is more varied and dramatic. He contrasts the reward of the righteous with the torment of the wicked.

I Say ye to the righteous

II Woe unto them

III The noise of a multitude

IV Howl ye

V The paper reeds by the brooks

VI But these are they that forsake the Lord
For ye shall go out with joy

VII Have ye not known?

VIII Ye shall have a song
